THE NEWSPAPERS generally are publishing lists of members elected to the Forty-eighth Congress. As no two of these lists are alike, either as to names or the political complexion of the House, they can be relied upon with about as much confidence as one feels in tackling a plate of boarding house hash. The only thing that all the papers agree upon is in giving the democrats a majority, but the majority ranges all the way from fifteen to seventy three; the republican papers holding the smaller figures and the democrats stating the higher ones. It is enough to know before reliable figures are given, that the democrats have all the members they require to keep that branch of Congress straight for two years.

NO MORE.

Notwithstanding the threats and efforts of the rule-or-ruin class in this Territory, THE HERALD cannot believe the present Congress will provide any more legislation for Utah, even should it attempt it, which latter is not probable. There is nothing to suggest more special law-making, while there are many things which indicate that nothing will be done in this direction. Last winter Congress went as far as it consistently or conscientiously could in the way of anti-Mormon legislation. It went farther than it had ever before gone in the law-making way. What it did was done in haste and without consideration. It is doubted if the second sober thought of the majority of those who voted for the Edmunds bill had been taken, the measure would now be on the statute books. Outside of the few who were trying to build up reputations for morality by earnestness in the matter, the senators and members were rather ashamed than otherwise of their conduct. They were in a sense coerced into voting for the bill. They could not, or dared not, face the mad and senseless yell of the church and press bounding them on to action. This latter agency has not appeared for the present season. Now and then an editor, being short of a live topic on which to write, blazes away at the Mormons and then subsides. The pulpit, also, has seemingly let up on Utah, congregations having wearied of the talk. Another element that entered into the matter last winter, was the desire of members to secure their re-election. They feared that opposition to the bill or even silence would be construed by their constituents into friendship for the despised Mormons, which would be fatal to their chances with the people. The election has passed, and votes in Congress this winter will neither help nor hurt a Representative. If he has been re-elected, he cannot help his reputation by attacking the Mormons, and if he has been defeated, he can afford to act conscientiously and independently, not being under the necessity of consulting those behind him who can neither advance nor retard him. This, also, is the short session of Congress. The few ends of legislation must be picked up, and there will be a busy time, outside of Utah matters. The member will be lucky who can get any measure through, that involves not a tithe of the opposition that another Utah bill would certainly excite. But above all things in favor of Utah is the fact, that the Edmunds bill has not yet been given a trial. It has been in operation but three or four months. There has been no opportunity for judging of its effectiveness, or saying what will be the results of its full force when applied in all its severity. Congress would hardly be so childish as to provide a second measure before knowing whether the first will answer the purpose.

No doubt an effort will be made to obtain further legislation against Utah, but we believe it will fail. It is less liable to be successful this winter than have been the attempts for many years past.

THE GENTLEMEN appointed by the Commission to canvass the returns from the delegate election will begin their work to-day, and if the returns sent to the secretary are all as complete and in as good shape as those received by THE HERALD the labors of the canvassers will be soon performed. We believe there has never been an election here when greater care was taken to have everything regular—according to the Commissioners' orders and rules—than the late one. Little irregularity has been discovered from the opening of the registration till the close of the polls, and the returns ought to be in a shape as to enable the canvassers to arrive at the result of the voting without delay, dispute or trouble.

THE CONTEST for the senatorial shoes of Ben Hill, of Georgia, is now going on in the legislature. A man named Pope Barrows was chosen for the unexpired term, and one dispatch announced that ex-Governor Colquitt had been elected for the term beginning March 4th next, but this was afterwards contradicted. In all probability Colquitt will win. It was hoped that the son of the dead Senator would at least have the honor of serving out his father's term, but it seems the Georgians run to individuals and not to families. Young Hill is a brilliant fellow, and having his life before him he will doubtless use his talents to win his own honors without accepting those of his dead parent.

DEBILITATED persons, and suffering from wasting diseases, such as consumption, scrofula, kidney affections, will be greatly benefited by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

It contains the opening chapters of Dr. Eggleston's original and entertaining history of the United States, entitled "The Beginnings of a Nation," and the first of Washington Gladden's papers on Christian Co-operation, which is attracting wide attention among business men interested in Christian work. The Independent says this series "gives promise of proving a thoroughly interesting and suggestive contribution." There is, also, the beginning of a charming love-story of mining-life, by Mary Hall-look Foote, etc., etc. Send 35 cents for this number to the nearest news-dealer or to THE CENTURY CO., New York, N.
